Future Plans for Capital Office Park Include Heliport, 4 Buildings

The quest by Prince Georges County officials over the past decade to bring high quality office parks, high technology and industrial centers and hotels to the county is rapidly being realized. Attracting major business organizations to the county has been land available at lower cost and more reasonable leasing rates than elsewhere in the Washington Metropolitan area, proximity to federal installations and universities, and easy access to highways and the area's three airports.

Greenbelt is the hub of the "Billion Dollar Circle," i.e., where the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, Capital Beltway and Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Avenue all come together. Here the construction of three highly touted, blue-chip projects appears to be moving at a faster pace than that of most projects in the county. These are the Capital Office Park at Kenilworth Avenue and the Capital Beltway, the Maryland Trade Center Park off Greenbelt Road at the Capital Beltway and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and the Golden Triangle on Greenbelt Road between the Capital Beltway and Kenilworth Avenue.

The three complexes are among 39 projects identified by the Prince George's County Economic Development Corporation as showing "especially strong promise in helping the county achieve its economic goals." All have been given top priority status and placed on a "Fast Track" system to expedite paper work through the various county approval processes.

by Elaine Skolnik

Capital Office Park's newest addition - a seven story office building plus two levels of underground parking for 100 cars made its debut on May 22. A gala reception marking the occasion was attended by city and county officials, Capital Office Park developers and tenants and other guests.

The 145,000 square-foot, off-white geometric structure complements three existing eight story buildings on 32 acres south of Ivy Lane. Rising on ten acres of the tract is the 17-story Hilton Hotel which, according to architects, will blend with and enhance the office buildings by offering amenities of personal service. (See separate story.) Four additional high-rise office buildings and a private heliport are also on the drawing boards for an adjacent 20 acres located north of Ivy Lane. When complete, the Capital Office Park will contain over one million square feet of office space to serve businesses employing about 5,000 persons.

Although the fourth Capital Office building stands alone on a long and narrow site, it is architecturally harmonious with the existing three buildings that angle away from the Beltway. Landscaped patio areas tie the three together.

All four structures have a strong sculptured look and are oriented on the site to take advantage of the seasons and to maximize energy conservation. Windows are of solar bronze and thermopane glass.

Reception

Guests at the reception enjoyed the panoramic view from spacious quarters on the top floor of the new Capital Office Park building. The Prince Georges Chamber Music Quartet, composed of Roosevelt High School students Eric Berg, Laura Millman and Rachel Turkiewicz and University of Maryland student Jason Warner, performed during the reception. A popular gathering place for guests was a picture display of the proposed four structures and the heliport.

Economic Development

"Capital Office Park is the kind of development we need in the county," observed County Executive Parris Glendening. He pointed with pride to the county's 3.6% unemployment rate, noting that it was "one of the lowest in the country."

"Creating more jobs for our local residents is one of the major goals of the county," explained James Hubbard, marketing representative for the Prince Georges County Economic Development Corporation ((EDC). EDC, a private sector corporation established by the county to spearhead economic development, aggressively markets the county to local and national businesses and organizations and encourages the expansion of existing firms. It also helps the business community to find financial assistance through a variety of federal, state and local programs.

In response to concerns about the adequacy of highways to serve the increased development, Hubbard said, "The county has built-in transportation modes... We can control and handle the growth and are working with the state and the county to get the best highways. We will not allow

by Leta Mach

"The City of Greenbelt is growing so much that the term 'urbanization' fits you very nicely; you have some of the benefits and some of the discomforts such as traffic." The speaker was Frank Derro from the Park and Planning Commission, who was addressing city officials and citizens assembled on July 16 to learn about the Commission's traffic study of Greenbelt.

The study had been undertaken at the request of the city. Based on present conditions and proposed future developments, the study makes several recommendations for the improvement of traffic conditions in Greenbelt. Currently all intersections in the study area except the Greenbelt Road/Kenilworth Avenue and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway ramp/Greenway Shopping Center intersections operate at level of service 'D' or better. Level of service is rated from 'A' (best) to 'F' (worst) and 'D' is the County standard for acceptable service.

"Some improvements you should have had here last Saturday, let alone next year," explained Derro. The study gave first priority to improvements along Greenbelt Road from Mandan Road to the Capital Beltway. While a Beltway overpass extension has been proposed for Cherrywood Lane, Derro did not feel this was a priority item since the Greenbelt Metro station is still a long way off. In addition, the Kenilworth/Greenbelt Road intersection was not viewed as a problem because plans are already well underway for improvements to that intersection.

Brian Collins from the Park and Planning Commission summarized the recommended improvements which were not already planned for the study area. Analyzing various scenarios, the study found that relocating the northbound Baltimore/Washington Parkway ramp about 350 feet to the east on Greenbelt Road and retaining the current location of the entrance to Greenway Shopping Center would provide the best level of service. Another proposal calls for replacing the Baltimore/Washington Parkway ramp on Southway with a new southbound ramp from Greenbelt Road near the Capital Beltway overpass.

Greenbelt Road Wider

The study also suggests that Greenbelt Road be widened to six lanes from Mandan Road to the planned eight-lane section just west of the Beltway overpass. Current plans call for eight lanes from Kenilworth Avenue to the east edge of the Golden Triangle, which will funnel into four lanes until the Baltimore/Washington Parkway, where the road would increase to six lanes up to Mandan Road. This situation would create a "bottleneck" in the Southway Road area, according to the study. This bottleneck could be alleviated by the closing of the Southway Baltimore/Washington Parkway ramp, the addition of a double left-turn lane on Southway, and the construction of six continuous lanes on Greenbelt Road up to the eight-lane section.

Hanover Parkway

Those present seemed to agree that the worst section was Greenbelt Road from Hanover Parkway to the Beltway overpass. Many complaints were voiced about the Greenbelt Road/Hanover Parkway intersection, especially the difficulty of making left turns. The left turn is now permissive and the turn arrow only activates when a car pulls up far enough to trigger the signal. Collins felt it would be safer to have the turn synchronized and automatic rather than permissive. City official offered to contact the State Highway Administration to see what could be done.

One improvement — the extension of Hanover Parkway to Good Luck Road — brought out several residents of Hunting Ridge. Two lanes of this future four-lane facility are now being designed. The residents were concerned about a buffer between the apartments and the road and whether any provision would be made for entering or exiting Hunting Ridge. Park and Planning officials advised the city to speak up and at the very least see about a bypass around cars which might be making left turns into Hunting Ridge.

The study explained Derro, "is not the last word on what happens in this area since the city is in the College Park Master Plan." The public hearing served as a guide to park and planning staff as to the items the public would like to see included in the future master plan.

Parents Organizing Child Care Venture for Fall

by Cathie Meetre

More than ever, nobody's home when the children get out of school. In an effort to meet the need for child care that this situation creates, a group of Greenbelt parents has joined together to try to develop a community-based before and after school program.

The group feels that child care for the elementary-age group should not be just a holding operation. It should have elements of activity, quiet times and places for reflection and study, and warm, friendly but firm supervision. In fact, it should offer what the parent would like to give the child, including enrichment activities such as arts and crafts and sports.

With the acquisition of North End School by the city, long-term facilities are secured and it seems likely that temporary space will be available to start a program this fall to fill the gap until the rehabilitation of the school is completed. Although almost all elements of the program are in the planning stage, it seems time for parents who would consider such a program to let the organizers know so that a realistic proposal may be prepared to set before the city. In addition, individuals who would be interested in staffing such a venture are also encouraged to make contact. Numbers to call are: Cathie Meetre, 474-0490 or Jane Kramer 474-1439.

Police Ceremony on TV

The June 29 Change of Command and Retirement Ceremony for Chiefs William T. Lane and Frank T. Hutson will be cablecast on Channel A-10 Monday, August 6 and Wednesday, August 8. The times for this program will be 2 and 7:30 p.m. on both days. The program also includes the promotions of several Greenbelt police officers.

Lakewood's Crime Watch

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the Springhill Lake residents who received certificates for participating in SHL's Neighborhood Watch program, as reported in the July 5 News Review. I'd just like to point out that Lakewood also has Neighborhood Watch, as do our neighboring communities of Boxwood and Woodland Hills.

The Lakewood program began last fall in response to a serious crime which occurred in our neighborhood. Over 100 residents assembled to hear Detective Sappington's presentation on the Neighborhood Watch program. Almost immediately, a Mobile Patrol program was set up. Many volunteers have donated their time to organize and schedule the patrols and to patrol the neighborhood in two-person teams; in addition, our dedicated Base Station Operator, our link to the Police Department, puts in many, many hours of service each week. Almost half the families in Lakewood are now participating in the Mobile Patrol.

Although the newly-reactivated Lakewood Civic Association has not yet had time to put together an official program honoring these volunteers, each and every person participating in this program is deserving of the community's thanks and appreciation.

Lakewood Civic Association

OPEN LETTER

To the Greenbelt Police:

As a former Greenbelter, who has returned to this town to raise my daughter, I have always felt a great pride and safety in the freedom and leisure to go and come safely here. It used to be that there were never any fears of walking to school, going to the library, or taking a carefree stroll around the lake.

Now Greenbelt has changed. The image has gone down in its calibre. Since hearing that there have been at least two sexual assaults at Greenbelt Lake, women are now fearful of losing their freedom to go and come as they choose. Women must go in two's or upon hearing this news, will refuse to go anywhere unaccompanied.

I feel that the police force of this town needs to protect the citizens . . . until the culprit or culprits have been found. And that means men on foot, in patrol cars, with radios and on the lookout. Do not wait until it happens to someone close. I am asking you to do all you can now so that the town of Greenbelt can be a place of pride and good community sharing.

OPEN LETTER

Mr. Robert S. Miller, Chairman
Board of License Commissioners
Dear Mr. Miller:

We are taking this opportunity to express our opposition to the liquor license application of Chi Chi's Mexican Restaurant of Greenbelt, Maryland. The hearing on this license application is scheduled for July 26, 1984.

A number of the Springhill Lake Civic Association members attended a recent Greenbelt City Council meeting where the draft site plan for Chi Chi's was presented to the City. While we understand that Chi Chi's has a fine reputation in the restaurant market, our Civic Association voted in an Executive Board meeting on July 14 to go on record as opposing the license primarily because of the location.

The upcoming construction of the Greenbelt Road-Kenilworth Avenue Interchange will force many more of our Springhill Lake residents to utilize Cherrywood Lane as the major entrance/exit from the community. Traffic is already a problem on this small roadway. When proceeding south on Cherrywood Lane to the Greenbelt Road traffic light, backups frequently occur, and the addition of restaurant traffic (both in and out) will make the situation unsafe and cumbersome for through traffic as well as restaurant patrons. The site plan for an exit from Chi Chi's to Cherrywood Lane between the Phillips 66 station and Finnegan's car wash is illogical, very narrow, and will severely hamper the safe exit of Finnegan's customers into the street. Arrangements for employees to park across Cherrywood Lane in the A & P lot appear to be unsafe and inconsiderate, as the employees will be forced to dodge traffic to cross the street. As the Cherrywood Lane entrance into Chi Chi's is planned to be slightly to the north of the entrance into the A & P parking lot, congestion and confusion will surely prevail for customers using either lot as well as automobiles attempting to travel north or south on Cherrywood Lane.

We would like to go on record as objecting to the liquor license in principle and would appreciate your review of our concerns.

Jose Morales, President
Springhill Lake
Civic Association

Ed Note: The Board of License Commissioners granted the liquor license on July 26.

Kudos for Kliman

To the Editor:

I was greatly pleased . . . to read . . . that Todd Kliman was awarded the Skolnik prize as the most talented journalism student from Roosevelt High.

As a former (Raider Review staff) writer, I can attest to Todd's deserving the award.

The name Todd Kliman, with all its connotations of journalistic ability and expertise, is virtually synonymous with the Raider Review.

Todd assumed controls of the newspaper and turned it into the award-winning publication that it is today, and in such a short time.

Todd's influence was apparent in every issue that came out under his leadership. The paper's attractiveness and professionalism can be directly linked to Todd Kliman, and deservedly so.

As expected of any top notch editor-in-chief, Todd incorporated a vast array of journalism techniques with a strong sense of what is good and bad in today's society. Many of his unmistakably American values — family, patriotism, ethics—was evident beneath his by-lines. . . .

The editor-in-chief lacks the attention, the glamour that is associated with other high-level positions in high school. . . . Todd personified the rare instance at ERHS in which an unattractive, taken-for-granted role produced . . . power and influence.

Watching Todd balance the fine line between mastery of his art and a soberness of his duty could leave any mere staff writer in awe. . . . I suggest to you not that Todd has earned the right to add this prestigious award to an already illustrious resume, but rather the Skolnik prize has become so much more eminent by including the name Todd Kliman on its rolls.

Principal Sponsor

To the Editor:

In your otherwise excellent story (June 14, 1984) on municipal tax differential you failed to mention that the principal sponsor of this bill was Del. Jerry Devlin, who has represented Greenbelt for many years in the Maryland House of Delegates.

Other politicians talk about reducing taxes, Delegate Devlin produced. Whether you live in a privately owned house or in GHI you will receive the benefits of a 31 cent reduction in your combined county-city tax rate. For all Greenbelters and especially seniors living on a fixed income this is a welcome relief.

Hilton Construction Begins

by Elaine Skolnik

Yes, Virginia, there is really going to be a Greenbelt Hilton!

After many years on the drawing boards, construction of the 17-story, 238,000 square foot facility is underway. With financing arrangements - the major factor in the delay - finalized, the doors of Greenbelt's second hotel will open in August 1985.

Springhill Lake Hotel Limited Partnership, developers of the Hilton Hotel, expect that the hotel's amenities will induce major business organizations to locate in the Capital Office Park. Architect Jack Cohen said that "a whole floor was leased in Building 4 because the tenant saw the hotel was for real."

Major features include two restaurants with a seating capacity of 350, a cocktail lounge and glass roofed indoor pool and health club. On the mezanine above the lobby there will be offices and 13 convention and meeting rooms. To be managed by Hilton Corporation, the hotel will employ over 300 persons.

The structure's exterior will be off-white pre-cast concrete panels designed to blend in with the colors of the surrounding office buildings. The grounds will contain outdoor tennis courts, surface parking, flagstone walkways and extensive landscaping. Architects are Cohen & Haft, Holtz, Kerxton of Silver Spring.

The Hilton's interior has been designed by Tom Lee Ltd., a national firm that is currently working on the Willard Hotel renovation in downtown Washington.

Omni Construction, Inc. of Rockville is building the hotel under a $13.9 million general construction contract. Some 226 cylindrical caissons with bell-shaped bottoms have already been placed 40 to 50 feet into the ground to give the building a solid structural foundation. Grade beams that run from caisson to caisson, basement walls and floors have been poured. Concrete columns extend from the basement to the first floor and from the lobby to the mezanine.

General partners of Springhill Lake Hotel Limited Partnership include Theodore Lerner, Mark Lerner, Albert Small and Harold Kramer.

Capital Office Park Development Plans

(The issue of adequacy of roads to serve a proposed development is taken up at the time of preliminary subdivision review. Critics feel this review should be done earlier; e.g., when the property is being rezoned.)

Overpass

Glendening and Hubbard reported that an overpass spanning the Beltway is proposed to connect Cherrywood Lane with the western portion of the Capital Office Park, where the overpass will hook up to Ivy Lane. (The METRO station and parking lots will be located on a tract adjacent to Cherrywood Lane and the Springhill Lake apartment development.) They pointed also to Greenbelt Road-Kenilworth Avenue Intersection improvements slated for completion in 1987.

Developers Edward Perkins and Harold Kramer of Springhill Lake Limited Partnership were upbeat about the office park's future. (The first building opened in January 1980.) They anticipated that construction of Building 5 could start in 1985, although Perkins cautioned that "high interest rates could slow things down."

Perkins thought that the office park's high visibility on the Beltway and its proximity to Montgomery County provide a major inducement for Montgomery County firms to relocate in the complex.

"First class," was the way Jack Cohen of the architectural firm of Cohen & Haft, Holtz, Kerxton described the Capital Office Park. "From the very beginning Capital Office Park developers were committed to build the highest quality product," he said. "We had a 'do it better' philosophy," he continued, explaining that in order to overcome the long-time denigration of Prince Georges County, "the county has had to fight for its reputation."

Cohen and his colleague Lou Bernardo emphasized that the proposed cluster of buildings north of Ivy Lane will have a "distinctive design" and will blend in with the existing grouping and the Hilton Hotel.

Some precast materials found in the existing structures will be used, but there will be more glass to create "a little different image and more strength."

Perkins, a World War II pilot, had a keen interest in the proposed heliport which, he said, would be used by Capital Office Park business organizations and the City of Greenbelt.

Tenants

About 40% of the new building has already been leased, said Dennis Burke of Community Realty Company, Inc., the leasing and management organization for the office park. Among the first to lease space are TRANSPACE Carriers, Inc., an aerospace company; GE Calma Company, a subsidiary of General Electric; Metropolitan Life Insurance (regional office); Suburban Trust Company (commercial loan office moving to Greenbelt from Hyattsville); SISCORP, (selective image systems corporation); VALID Logic Systems, a computer marketing firm; Sequoia Systems, computer marketers; Electrospace Systems; West & Brady, Inc. advertising agency; University Research Foundation; Milton Jernigan, attorney; and the Good Friend Temporaries, Inc., employment agency.

Burke said that the existing three buildings are "fully leased to an impressive list of companies, including Martin Marietta Data Systems, New York Life, IBM and Eastern Business Machines." Community Realty also manages the Springhill Lake Apartment development and Green Ridge House.

CONSIDERING A CHANGE IN RESIDENCE?

There are three key elements to consider:

- A) Your needs: things you positively have to have.
- B) Your wants: things you'd like to have, but don't necessarily need.
- C) Your qualifications:
 - 1) Your initial investment (cash to move in)
 - 2) Your total income (gross yearly income)
 - 3) Your debt service (total indebtedness)

GHI Accepts Five-Year Plan to Correct Water Drainage Problems with Staff Labor

by Mavis Fletcher

On July 19 the Greenbelt Homes, Inc., board of directors heard the first results of a survey of surface water drainage problems being carried out by the firm of Oyster, Imus and Petzold, Inc. Engineer Walter Petzold, summing up findings for the board, said that the survey showed no major flooding which would cause serious damage to property. However, the flat grade of many yards, density of buildings and the deterioration (natural and man-made) of the swales had caused a large number of areas to have surface water problems. He recommended a 5-year plan for attacking the problem.

The plan would be carried out by GHI maintenance forces, with priority given to severe problems threatening residents' health, safety or welfare: for example, water flowing over a sidewalk which would be icy in winter. In answer to a question by President Margaret Hogensen, General Manager Shekar Narasimhan assured the board that the cost of the project, estimated to be in the $600,000 range, would be budgetarily feasible if carried out over five years.

The report appeared to anticipate the use of drains connected to the storm sewer system as the preferred method of dealing with the water problem. Such drains would consist of an inlet into a 12" pipe buried about three feet deep. The swale concept would be retained for small areas with good swales; but Petzold warned that, with the amount of building there is in GHI, drains will be required in many cases. The board accepted the concept of a 5-year plan using in-house resources.

Mortgage Funds

The new Share Loan Service Corporation will act as lender to GHI for a half million dollar allocation of proceeds from a planned Prince Georges County Housing Authority bond issue. If the county gets the triple A rating it is seeking with the commitment to SLSC included, 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loans to first-time home buyers will be available at a rate anticipated to be in the 12.25% range, according to Narasimhan's presentation to the board. The board unanimously approved the request for these funds.

SLSC has also granted GHI a commitment of $2 million for mortgage loans to be made in the year starting Aug. 1. These are the funds provided to SLSC by the National Consumer Cooperative Bank (NCCB). Loans from these funds will be adjustable rate mortgages. The board also authorized the creation of a part-time loan officer position in GHI; the 1% loan fee processing fee GHI receives is expected to cover the salary of this position and all other costs associated with the loans.

Staff Reports

Board members were again given the second quarter staff report in the new and polished format instituted earlier this year. Each department head provides a viewgraph presentation of that department's work load and accomplishments for the past quarter.

Maintenance Supervisor Joe Whalen cited an impressive 3720 work orders completed in the second quarter; his department is handling more than 1200 tickets a month, 200 more than ever before, with a staff of 14.

Rayetta Henson, chief of Contract Processing, emphasized a workshop which was conducted for realtors to help them understand selling GHI units. The workshop was attended by 21 realtors, she reported, and requests for the brochure prepared for the workshop continue to be received. She also presented a summary of demographic statistics maintained by her office: in the last quarter 66 units were sold, 55% of the buyers were 20-30 years old, 54% were single.

Joan Freeman, Executive Assistant for Member Relations, said that 38 formal complaints had been resolved during the quarter, ID cards for the discount purchasing program had been prepared and preparations made for the Eastern Cooperative Housing Conference, which will be held in Greenbelt in September.

Financial Report

Comptroller Don McGinn, presenting the Second Quarter financial report, said that GHI is staying well within budget — "the best six months I can remember for years."

Narasimhan reported that the NCCB rehab loan had been closed out with a principal balance of approximately $10.8 million. As another sign that rehab is really over, the GHIDC trailer is being moved out on Aug. 1. Questions about rehab should be directed to GHI, Narasimhan said.

Hogensen thanked the management staff for its presentation which appeared to be well-received by the board. She also made a point of saying that management had been under great pressure this year and she wished to thank them for all their hard work.

Member Complaints

This rosy picture was slightly blurred earlier in the evening by complaints from three members about GHI's lack of response to their concerns. All complaints centered around a lack of supervisory follow-through on work to be done or being done in their homes. The most serious of these was voiced by Barbara Likowski, 6-Hillside, whose unit is included in the structural repair program. She complained that in her row — one of the more severe cases — the work seems to be more cosmetic than structural. She blamed this on a lack of supervision. Management spokesmen agreed that work had been stopped in this row because they were not comfortable with what was being done in the building. They have also called back the consulting engineering firm to make a new report and recommendations.

The board accepted a report from the Aesthetics and Environment Committee in which the committee described itself as "shocked and distressed" by the design of the garage roofs being installed at 17 Court Ridge Rd. The committee views the new design as infringing "on the integrity of the original architectural design of Greenbelt." According to the report, the original garage design was a key element in the architectural concept, which is "a statement of pure Platonic geometry expressing the utopian idealism of the plans and the social concept it represents." According to comments from others present, the roofs also leaked a lot. The committee report requested that the garage roofs already installed be removed and the garages restored to their original appearance.

White Reelected To MML Board

Greenbelt City Councilman Thomas X. White was elected to his third consecutive term as an at-large member of the Board of Directors of the Maryland Municipal League. League members elected new officers and board members as part of the organization's annual convention held last month in Ocean City. The twenty member board oversees the development of municipal policy in support of home rule government for the residents of Maryland's cities and towns. Councilman White has also served seven years on the League's Legislative Action Committee.

The board, agreeing that the design question was important, deferred further discussion until a later meeting.

The next meeting of the board will be held on August 2; a special meeting on by-law change recommendations is scheduled for Aug. 16.

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

A resident at 14 Crescent Rd. found his apartment burglarized when he returned from an extended vacation. The Greenbelt police department urges residents to take advantage of the department's house check program when leaving a residence empty for a lengthy period. Details can be obtained by calling the Greenbelt police at 474-7200.

A man from Hyattsville was arrested on July 27 at about midnight in the 7700 block of Mandan Rd. on charges of a peeping tom trespass.

A 1984 Pontiac TransAm was stolen from the 7700 block of Hanover Parkway on July 28. The car was recovered in Washington, D.C. on July 31 and an arrest was made in the case. A spokesman for the Greenbelt police department advises residents to park in well-lighted areas, to close the windows and lock all doors in their cars. It is inadvisable to leave a spare key in a car, police say.

In the period July 27-31 four persons were arrested in the city on charges of driving while intoxicated. In the same period, five automobile accidents occurred on July 28 at the intersection of Greenbelt and Mandan Rds. barely five hours apart. In one case, the injured were taken to a local hospital.

Part II: Construction Days

Greenbelt . . . A Look at the Beginnings

by Peter Durantine

(In the second in a five-part series on Greenbelt's beginnings, the reader meets some of the workers during the construction days, 1935-37.)

By 1936, the American public was fast becoming aware of what Time magazine was calling a "spectacular" model town. People quickly became interested in what the government was doing; low cost housing was in great demand at the time with many people asking for better living conditions which were affordable. For many, Greenbelt sounded like the answer.

In the planning of Greenbelt, it was decided that residents would be selected by application in order that the Resettlement Agency could best determine who was most eligible. Over 9,000 applications were received. With so many wanting to live in Greenbelt, the planners felt that selection by application was the fairest way of giving those most eligible residency. From all over the country letters poured into the RA offices, written by people desperately pleading and explaining why they should be allowed to live in Greenbelt. So desperate was one fellow, he wrote that his wedding plans were riding on the decision made by the RA. His desperation was further evident with the closing of his letter, "Yours for better housing."

With construction half complete by the winter of 1937, evidence of a town began to appear along the ridge of land 15 miles north of Washington, D.C. Greenbelt's man-made lake, with a spillway which acted as a mile-long toboggan run in the cold months, was the first project completed.

"I remember President Roosevelt coming out in a touring car—top down—and pouring fish in the lake," wrote J. Walsh Barcus in A Collection of Recollections of Greenbelt Residents and Others, which was compiled by city employee Dorothy Lauber in 1982.

At the time of Roosevelt's "fishing trip" Barcus was working on the construction project as a time keeper. His duties included meeting trains from Washington and Baltimore and distributing buttons to workers as they stepped off the trains to waiting trucks which took them to Greenbelt.

"There were three different colored buttons," explained Walsh, "white for laborers, yellow for semi-skilled, and red for skilled workers. Each group was authorized a specified number of hours each month."

Barcus, a resident of Greenbelt since 1938, also remembers the car he drove then: "... a 1935 Plymouth that my father had given to me for work and the motor was literally red from the red clay powder dust on the project and when it rained the red powder turned to slush."

And through the red clay and rain, which turned it to red mud, rose Greenbelt, a beautiful collection of brick and masonry homes, some of which were painted in pastels of pink, yellow, green, and white. They were spacious, airy, allowing for plenty of light, while built with practicality and economy in mind. A store at the center sold furniture designed to harmonize with the interior of the building. Items needed could be purchased and paid for on the installment plan. What was especially unique—whether or not the planners had this in mind—was that a form of birth control was incorporated in the construction and rules maintaining the homes. No more than two children were allowed to sleep in a bedroom and a family could have no more than three children because the largest home built had only two and a half bedrooms.

By mid-winter both the mother and child statue in the commercial center and the six sculptured panels which run along the elementary school were nearing completion. Both projects were designed and sculptured by Lenore Thomas who had been looking for work as a sculptress until she heard about the Works Progress Administration. The WPA was another New Deal program which hired artists such as Thomas for the purpose of providing jobs for them so they could exercise their skills and create art for public places and buildings.

"I started to look for commissions at 18," explains Thomas, now Mrs. Straus, living near Bar Harbor, Maine. "People were receptive, but no work. I even went to see Frank Lloyd Wright to see if I could do something," she reminisces with a laugh. It was when she heard about the WPA and what they were offering for artists that she came to Greenbelt.

"I had a philosophy and esthetic way of relating sculpture and architecture," says Thomas of the six sculptured panels that run along the facade of the school.

This Bauhausian concept, which Thomas said had "an indirect influence" in her work, depicts the preamble of the Constitution and the philosophy of the RA. Some of the figures in the six panels are likenesses of the laborers on the project, who Thomas and her assistant, Antonio Luccarin, a union stone cutter, used as their subjects.

"Nurturing the younger people, (a) simple kind of symbolism—nurturing our culture or future," explains Thomas of the symbolism in the mother and child statue which stands in the commercial center.

While Lenore Thomas chipped away at her work that winter of 1937, Rexford Tugwell was resigning his post as administrator of the RA and his membership in the Roosevelt administration. Later, in 1958, Tugwell would come back to live in Greenbelt, but for 1937 he would assume an executive position with the American Molasses Company.

"Some of the figures in the six (sculpted) panels are likenesses of the laborers on the project." — Lenore Thomas photo courtesy of J. Henson

At this time also, Greenbelt was becoming one of the most debated federal projects of the year. In Congress Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia was criticizing the amount of money the government was spending on the project. In rebuttal, Eleanor Roosevelt, a strong advocate for the town, explained that Greenbelt was an "experiment" and that it should be treated as such, with the understanding that "experiments are costly."

Meanwhile, others began to feel that the government was becoming too involved in the individual lives of the citizens. Many newspapers that were opposed to the "green towns" plan were calling Greenbelt Tugwell's Folly.

Responding to the accusations, Roosevelt and the town planners stood firm, explaining that they wanted Greenbelt to be an example of what people and private corporations should do and not what the government should do.

In the spring, the Maryland State Legislature passed the resolution allowing Greenbelt to be a municipality. On June 1, 1937 Greenbelt was officially given municipal status, thus becoming the first town in the state to have a council-manager form of government. The concept of a managerial government is that the town operates on a business rather than a political level.

At the same time Greenbelt was declared a municipality it also received its charter, which provided for a non-partisan town council of five equal members, nominated by petition signed by no less than 3% and no more than 5% of the registered electorate. Of the five members elected to the council, one would be chosen mayor and one mayor pro tem, their offices being primarily ceremonial because the highest authority in the municipality was the council itself. The duties of the council were, and still are, to establish governmental policy, legislate authority, maintain contact with public opinion, and oversee administrative offices through the town manager.

Swim Team News

by Sue Jones

At the Division Championship meet last Saturday, where the top two swimmers in each event race, Greenbelt could not rely on depth, and placed sixth of six. The final standing this year, based on the championship meet and the dual meet season, was: Bannister (champion), Brandywine, Smallwood Village, Greenbelt, Hawthorne, and Gateway Park.

Greenbelt, however, left its mark. Craig Dies took pool records in the 15-18 boys butterfly, breaststroke and individual medley and broke the Prince-Mont League record in the medley with a time of 1:02.50. Tara Yaney broke the team record in the 13-14 girls breaststroke.

James Fellows joined Craig in taking three first places and scoring 21 points. Other high point scorers were: Tara Yaney, 13; Carolyn Drake, 9; Aimee Fellows, 7; and Allison Low, Steffan Sonneveldt. Brian Dies and Lynda Blue, 6 points.

This Saturday the top swimmers in the league will meet at Cheverly for the All-Star meet. Representing Greenbelt are: Weston VanWambeke, Allison Low, James Fellows, Tara Yaney, Craig Dies, and Steffan Sonneveldt.

Sunday Greenbelt will host the annual Novice Meet for swimmers who haven't placed first, second or third in a Prince-Mont dual meet in an individual event. (Relays don't count.) Warm-up will be at 8:15 Sunday morning. Anyone who would like to join in the swim is welcome to try—be there!

On July 14 the two largest teams in D division faced off and Greenbelt was the winner, defeating Smallwood Village, 275-265. Reed Wirick, Allison Low, James Fellows, Steffan Sonneveldt, Craig Dies and Lynda Blue all swam undefeated for 15 points. Other high point scorers were: Margaret Williamson - 12, Weston VanWambeke, Tara Yaney, Brian Dies - 11, Kathy Barwick - 10, Emily Sonneveldt, Brian Sluder - 8, and Shawn Luddy and Jenny Drake - 7 points.

A week ago an incomplete Greenbelt team rose to the soggy occasion and battled to victory over Hawthorne, 261-260, the closest match of the season. To earn this victory, many swimmers swam in older age groups, or in events they normally did not swim. The win was the result of a team effort, as all who swam scored points. High scorers were Steffan Sonneveldt and Craig Dies - 15, James Fellows - 14, Tara Yaney - 13, Allison Low, Brian Dies, Aimee Fellows, Lynda Blue - 11, Carolyn Drake and Reed Wirick - 10, Margaret Williamson and Shawn Luddy - 9, Kevin Myers, Tom Jones, Scott Luddy and Rob Reed - 8 points.

RABIES ALERT: A rabid raccoon was destroyed by the Greenbelt Police in the vicinity of 53 Court of Ridge Rd. on July 21. Subsequent tests confirmed that the raccoon was rabid. This is the first finding of a rabid animal in Greenbelt although others have been found in surrounding areas. The raccoon had contact with at least one pet dog. Rabies shots for all dogs and cats are a must, both by law and for the safety of our community.

LABOR DAY FESTIVAL

Congratulations to Joan Linstrom and husband Kenneth Jones on the birth of their daughter, Laura Jessica, on June 24. Laura's proud grandmother is Mary Linstrom of 11 Court Ridge Road.

Welcome back to the Dancis family, at home in 5 Court Laurel Hill after a long stay in Israel.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jamison, the 77-year-old aunt of Yvonne Dick of University Square, is visiting here this week from Champaign, Illinois. She is getting acquainted with Yvonne's son William (John) Dick of Hunting Ridge and daughter Lisa Perez of Laurel Hill. Of special delight to her are great-grandnieces Alisha Perez and Karin Dick.

Mrs. Ottilie Norris of Green Ridge House welcomed her 27th great-grandchild, Christine Elizabeth Caruso, on June 25. Parents are Beverly and Michael Caruso. Christine is also getting much attention from great-aunt Alverta and great-uncle Larry Shanahan, great-aunt Margaret and cousins Donna and Debbie Brunatti of 19 Court Ridge.

Speaking of Donna, she left June 29 for Sweden, where she will stay with a Swedish family for the summer. A junior at Elizabeth Seton High School, she was selected to participate in the 1984 Youth for Understanding Exchange program. She received a certificate of recognition and a $500 summer scholarship. Her grandparents, the Shanahans, gave her a Bon Voyage Party at their Westway home. Her paternal grandfather is George Brunatti of Lakeside Drive.

A number of Greenbelt students have distinguished themselves recently at colleges and universities near and far. Karen Leigh Lenchek, a junior at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, was initiated into the National Honor Society Phi Beta Kappa. A major in Religious Studies, she is the wife of former Greenbelter Armand Lenchek.

Kathleen Kyle, 21 Ridge Road, has just completed her sophomore year at the University of Maryland with a 4.0 average. Last fall she received a Provost Scholar's award from the Division of Arts and Humanities for scholastic excellence in her freshman year. Her parents are Lee and Sylvia Kyle.

Eric A. Crabtree, son of Mrs. Jacque Crabtree of Northway, received the Hanson Prize for Excellence for an essay in his field, economics, at Oberlin (Ohio) College. A junior there, he graduated from Eleanor Roosevelt High School in 1981.

Congratulations to Gloria Hensel, daughter of Richard and Irene Hensel of Orange Court, on her induction recently into Phi Theta Kappa, a National Honor Society, at the Takoma Park campus of Montgomery College, where Gloria is majoring in Mental Health.

Kudos also to Christina Marie McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McCarthy of Greenhill Road, who gained a spot on the Dean's List at St. Mary's College, St. Mary's City, by earning a grade-point average over 3.5.

Greenbelter Peter Lindstrom made the Dean's list at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University during the spring quarter. A senior, Peter's field is electrical engineering.

Karen Jones, Northway, was named a Kellas Scholar for the spring term at Russell Sage College in Troy, N.Y. A Kellas Scholar is a student who has been named to the Dean's list for three consecutive semesters.

Congratulations to Ashish Rastogi, son of Subhash and Rita Rastogi of Breezewood Drive, on receiving the American Legion School Award as a graduating 6th-grader at Springhill Lake Elementary School.

Roberta Felson, chairperson of the art department at Eleanor Roosevelt High School since 1977, has been named one of "America's most outstanding art teachers" by Rhode Island School of Design. She has been invited to participate in an all-expense-paid Honors Seminar for the Advancement of Art Education at Rhode Island School of Design in Providence, R.I. Selection to the Honors Seminar is made by the School of Design after polling school administrators, arts council representatives, college faculties, and museum personnel.

Camp Pine Tree campers enjoyed their trip to Hershey Park on June 25. The weather was perfect.

Congratulations to Martha Kaufman and Ray Haber, both alumni of the Pentagon, who won two of the five door prizes at the annual board meeting of the Pentagon Federal Credit Union last month. Kaufman won an AM/FM stereo radio and cassette tape deck, and Haber won a $50 traveler's check.

A number of Greenbelt families have sons and daughters who recently received recognition as members of the armed forces. Army Pvt. Jeffrey G. Van Scoy, son of Norma L. Michael D. Nitowitz, son of David H. Nitowitz of Breezewood Drive, who recently returned from a six-month deployment to Beirut, Lebanon, and the eastern Mediterranean. A member of Marine Service Support Group 22, 22nd Marine Amphibious Unit (MAU), he has seen action in Grenada, where his MAU was involved in Operation Urgent Fury in October 1983, and in Lebanon, where the unit began its peacekeeping role in early November 1983. They were among the last Americans to leave Lebanon when the multi-national peacekeeping forces were withdrawn.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Patrick L. Moore, son of Edward L. and Mary A. Moore of 44 Court Ridge Rd., returned recently from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean as a member of Attack Squadron 87 (VA-87) which is based at Naval Air Station Cecil Field, Fla.
